it's "top-drawer" from A.C. MILLED in more ways than one when it's...

Cushman colonial

Quality is, at best, a relative word and loosely used these days. That's why we suggest you put Cushman Colonial to the "top drawer" test. For if there's ever a way to establish "top quality," the study of a drawer gives a pretty good basis for comparison.

Check for such things as fit, for smooth inside finish, for dovetall joints. Is the bottom inset and held securely by glue blocks? How about a center guide channel? And while the drawer is out, what about the interior of the case? This way you'll see the construction details that give truth to all claims made for Cushman Colonial.

But that's what you might expect of furniture made in the Vermont tradition of craftsmanship, by a house with a three-generation reputation for real value.

The right to vote is a privilege denied to millions and millions of people. It is a privilege the Communist overlords would take away from us.

Don't be one of those who don't vote because they are "not interested in politics." Voting does not require an "interest in politics."

It is simply the exercising of a privilege-a privilege to have a hand in the selection of those who will guide us through the perilous times ahead,

Difficult as it is to believe, there are literally millions of citizens in this democracy who are voteless. The amazing thing is that it is voluntary. These millions just don't bother to register

Crowds And Candidates

Political pundits are engaging in an old custom early in this presidential campaign-trying to see a portent in the size of crowds at political rallies.

A story out of Detroit by a New York reporter comments on the fact that U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy drew an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 at a Labor Day rally compared to much larger throngs for Democratic candidates in After observing crowds at political rallies over the years, our conclusion is that their size has about as much relation to the outcome of a campaign as the size of a candidate's hat.

A good political organization can fill any hall on any given night regardless of whether the candidate is without peer or just another guy trying to get in out of the cold.

On a local scale this was illustrated in 1954 when George M. Leader ran for governor. The Democratic state organization was without the state payroll and pitted against a numerically superior and more powerful Republican opponent. Mr. Leader won by around 280,000 votes although sometimes you could count his audiences on two hands.

Four years later Governor Leader toured the state trying to get elected to the United States Senate. He had the state payroll and a now potent Democratic state organization back of him. The halls were filled. Mr. Leader took it on the chin from Republican Hugh -Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

PUC To Renew Lehigh RR Fight

HARRISBURG (AP)-The pub lic utility commission said yester day it will renew its fight to prevent the Lehigh Valley railroad from dropping passenger service It said it will file a protest with the interstate commerce commis sion urging the ICC to reject the plan and to hold public hearings instead to determine whether the move would be justified.

Lehigh Valley has proposed to drop all passenger service Oct. 1 The PUC said retention of service in the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton area served by the railroad's Lehighton-New York run is essential for the welfare of the numerous communities affected. The ICC will be asked to hold hearings in Pennsylvania at a location convenient for the Lehigh Valley's patrons. Lehigh Valley operates a train each way between Lehighton and New York and between Buffalo and New York.

The PUC, along with the state administration and the cities of and Pittston, fought a similar proposal in 1958 to drop the passenger service. The ICC turned the proposal down finally last year.

Lehigh, in its renewal of the plan, said it has to quit because of heavy losses. It reported a June deficit of $666,000.

While, on the surface, the summer has made very little difference in the county or its people, you'd be surprised at how out-of-touch you can get even during such a short space

Friends look just the same: no more gray hair, no more wrinkles, as friendly, familiar, and dear as ever. So that it comes as a shock to find that some of their lives have been changed by death, or divorce, by new triumphs, or new joys. New grandmothers take the place of the young matrons you left; new brides replace the harum-scarum teen-agers.

On the surface, the town looks find familiar traffic habits broken by detours for the sewer in East Stroudsburg; new stop sign at the exit from the Thru-way where you don't expect it.

And somehow in East Stroudsburg I sensed a tension I couldn't put my finger on. So many kids on the street during school hours, so many teachers in the stores. Finally, the light dawned: the new East Stroudsburg High School due to open on Monday. No wonder every body's excited.

For the residents, with their new tax bills coming due in October, there is a pardonable curiosity to see what they've at chalk-marked windows, and through doors soon to open to a new era in education.

For the students, uncertain vacations, there is a vast impatience to get started.

Wyckoff Shopper

The Ever-Welcome Class of Betty Colvin of our corset department is a note writer. She is always leaving notes upon my typewriter, saying something about Playtex, or Lovable, or some such thing. Usually these notes are complete with description and prices—but not today's. Today's is a cryptic, "Madalyn-now is the time to get into a good girdle. Choose from famous brands: Tru-Balance, Formfit, Warners, Vanity, and Gossard." That's all-not another word. Now the question is: does she mean it's time for ME to get into a good girdle (what's wrong with the one I'm wearing, Betty?—you sold it to me!)

or does she wish me to pass the word along to YOU?? How would you like to go in for a bit of Shadow Play? This is the tricky name of two cute plastic Eye Shadow Wands by Coty that come packaged together at 1.35. There are eight colors in the sticks, including an irridescent silver, an irridescent gold, orchid, blue, and green tones. With Shadow Play you can really play around and see just what color is best for you, morning, noon, or night. Eye shadow can be fun -and unless you use it these days you're not at all in style . . . Hannah Shupp and I had our heads together in the gift department the other day (rather a trick when you consider how tiny she is and how tall I am) discussing some of the lovely compliments our store has received recently. One man and woman were escorted around by Hannah, and revealed that they were enjoying themselves so much they thought they'd do all their shopping right here before leaving town. Hannah beamed encouragement, "Why don't you?" she asked. "You might enjoy lunch in our Tea Room-it's all home cooking, the atmosphere is pleasant, and we have wonderful pies and coffee that we roast ourselves right on the premises." She was pleased when the couple returned later to thank her, and tell her they had enjoyed their lunch as much as she predicted they would. Another customer happened to be vacationing in the Poconos and was telling her hostess about the wonderful store she had visited in Stroudsburg and the pleasant saleswoman who had greeted her. Hannah will not like my telling you, but it's a cute coincidence: the hostess happened to be Hannah's sister, and Hannah was the saleswoman whom the guest described. And Mrs. Joseph McCann, whom I mentioned in a previous column, and who has traveled everywhere with her engineer husband who is in the Army reserve, told me enthusiastically that she loves Wyckoff's. "It's the only store I've ever seen that has more items than the biggest PX abroad-and at very reasonable prices too." All of this is pretty heady, but when I see the fine job our buyers and salespeople are doing, I personally think it's deserved. Every word of it! . . . Next time you're looking for a very special card for a very special person, ask the girls in our Cardcade about the silk prints of famous prints mounted upon heavy paper and prettily matted. They would be lovely framed-in fact, one of our local doctor's wives bought several for this purpose. Priced at 1.00 these have no message, but one can write a rather long letter in the fold, if one wishes. In two sizes, the prices are 50c and 1.00, complete with envelope . . . My friends at the Simplicity Pattern Company have mailed me the new issue of Modern Teacher dealing with cooperation in the classroom. There are special sections devoted to projects for beginners, variations unlimited in separates and dresses, Paris tips for glamour, and news about skirts. Simplicity patterns are on sale at Wyckoff's, as you know, and if any company has ever made it easy to sew, Simplicity's designers and fashion coordinators have certainly done so.

10 POINTS WHY YOU SHOULD OWN A HILLMAN FOR BETTER MOTORING

1. Low Initial Cost. 2. Costs less to operate with up to and over 35 miles per gallon.

3. Safer because its better built with 17 gauge U. S. steel.

4. Comfortable air foam cushions front and rear. 5. Abundance of power with a turnpike powered engine.

6. Essentially equipped at no extra cost.

7. You get four door room for the whole family.

8. Ample luggage space for vacation travel. 9. Parts and service in all principal towns in the United States as well as all foreign countries. Many parts are American made-easy to get such as: timkin bearings, lockhead brakes, etc. 10. Hillman is the car that has birth control (no new babies every nine months). You are assured of at least three years without a maor style change and have less depreciation.

As additional comment, did you know that Great Britain, in the past three years, has purchased over fifty million dollars worth of U.S. steel? Did you know that in this latter part of 1960 they have placed an order with American manufacturers for fifty million dollars worth of American made tools? These statements tend to disprove the idea that Buying a Foreign car hurts the American economy.

Hillman is tough, strong and reliable. 5,000 miles in five days from Vancouver, B.C. to Anchorage, Alaska and back over the rough, Alkan highway, without a mechanical failure was one test.
